Council to set airport closure date for Nov. 30

Last flight. Airport closure to make way for new Blatchford community on the site, councillor says

RYAN TUMILTY
ryan.tumilty@metronews.ca

The last planes could be leaving the City Centre Airport this November.

City councillors will be asked to recommend a final closure date of Nov. 30 for the last runway at next week's council meeting.

Coun. Kim Krushell, who has championed the redevelopment of the site, said after pursuing the expropriation and finding a new home for medevac services it is time for the last flight.

"This is just the conclusion of what everybody was expecting for a long time," she said.

Krushell said the closure is going to make way for the new Blatchford community on the site, which she believes Edmontonians will be proud of.

"When we are done, it will be the largest green build in the country and I think that is something to be excited about," she said.

Mark Hall, the project's executive director, said if they want to start redeveloping the site they need to start removing runways and taxiways.

"Part of what we are looking at is probably a four- to six-month window of time that we need to begin to remove the infrastructure," he said.

He added if that work takes place over the winter the city can start redevelopment early next summer.

"That would give us a bit of a jump on the construction season next year," said Hall.

The date starts a countdown for the Alberta Aviation Museum to get their surplus planes, including a 737, off of the site.

"I have a lot of stuff to move and I am still trying to figure out where it is going to," said Tom Hinderks, the museum's executive director.

He added he also has to figure out how to pay for it all.

"We are a not-for-profit museum and we hold our own, but I don't have money lying around for storage costs."

ASIRT. Cop charged in fatal 2012 collision

An Edmonton Police officer has been charged in relation to a fatal collision in March 2012 that killed an 84-year-old woman.

The charges come following the conclusion of a comprehensive investigation by the Alberta Serious Incident Response Team (ASIRT).

Clifton Purvis, executive director of ASIRT, revealed few details about the case at a media availability on Thursday, because the matter is now before the courts.

He said it's believed this is the first time criminal charges have been laid in relation to an EPS driving offence.

The crash happened on March 8, 2012, when a plainclothes on-duty officer was travelling in an unmarked vehicle northbound on 75 Street, approaching the intersection at 76 Avenue.

At the time, the officer was working with a team of investigators who were conducting surveillance on offenders and was actively involved in monitoring an assigned individual.

An 84-year-old woman attempting to make a left-hand turn onto 76 Avenue collided with the officer's oncoming vehicle.

The woman died as a result of the injuries she sustained, while the officer suffered serious but non life threatening injuries.

"Obviously this is a tragedy for everybody," Purvis said.

Purvis would not comment if the officer was speeding or why he is being charged.

EPS Const. Chris Luimes has been charged with one count of dangerous driving causing death.

EPS makes record stolen-goods bust

'Looked like something out of Hoarders.' After a long investigation, police find Cumberland-area home packed with items all neatly organized

If you've had something stolen in the past five years, there's a chance police may have just recovered it.

Following a months-long investigation, EPS has made its biggest-ever seizure of commercial, industrial and residential property from a Cumberland-area house.

The home was packed with stolen gear dating as far back as 2008 — grouped in neat categories throughout the home.

"It looked like something out of Hoarders — all laid out like in a store shopping aisle," said EPS Acting Staff Sergeant Kevin Fald.

"The thief wasn't fussy — there's a bit of everything here."

Items included a wall-mounted bison head, a signed Oilers jersey, bear pelts, high-end watches, dirt bikes and golf clubs. The hundreds of individual items filled four 5-tonne trucks and now sit in two 40-foot sea cans at an undisclosed Edmonton warehouse.

"There will be many complainants who will be getting their stolen goods back. Police have already identified more than 50 individuals whose stolen items were seized," said

Sgt. Joe Lewis of the West Division Criminal Investigation Section.

Police have laid 216 charges against 34-year-old Jason Raymond Schell, which includes 112 counts of possession of stolen property under $5,000. The investigation is ongoing, and EPS hasn't ruled out more charges or further arrests in the case.

"We're just connecting the dots now," said Fald.

"We want to emphasize the importance of filing a police report when someone believes something has been stolen."

Anyone who may have had their goods stolen, or has information on the case, is asked to call 780-423-4567. Items not claimed will be placed for auction. LUCY HAINES/FOR METRO

Enormous effort

- It took 20 EPS officers over 30 hours to remove stolen goods from a two-storey Cumberland-area home, garage and backyard
- Valued at over $100,000, the seizure included five pallets of liquor valued at $35,000, $13,000 worth of gift cards, animal pelts and exercise equipment
- Police have spent more than 1,100 hours on the seizure, which involved an additional eight civilian EPS members, three fish and wildlife officers, and a liquor and gaming official.

Family hosts open house in remembrance of daughter

Death of Melinda Green. 'It's a gruelling thing to go through,' says grieving father

annalise.klingbeil@metronews.ca

On Sunday, the day before what would have been Melinda Green's 21st birthday, friends and family will gather at the Second Cup where she worked for more than six years.

They'll drink coffee and eat cake as they share stories and memories of the bride-to-be, who was killed in May when a Jeep lost control during a routine climbing demonstration at an Edmonton charity event.

The open house, which is being hosted by Melinda's family and Second Cup, is a way for family and friends to celebrate the joy she brought to their lives for 20 years.

"As a family, we decided we do want to have some sort of celebration, but it's pretty tough to say happy birthday," said father John Green.

John said the family will welcome anyone who wants to stop by for a piece of cake.

"We just want people to know that it was her birthday and we miss her and there's a lot of people out there that are missing her along with us," he said.

In return, they're asking guests to bring along a flower, or a few.

Melinda's family is planning to visit her grave on Sunday evening and blanket it with flowers, so on Monday morning — what would have been her 21st birthday — it will be covered.

John said after his daughter's funeral, which nearly 1,000 people attended, seeing flowers at Melinda's grave was comforting.

Since Melinda's death, her family has been calmed by hearing just how many lives she touched through her work at Second Cup and, "just being a friendly, joyful person," he said.

"The tough part is, you can have all that realization and all that beauty and still be going through grueling agony to try to rebuild.... There's no way to put into words how difficult it is," he said.

Melinda Green, seen with fiancé Cory Bekkers, was killed during a Jeep stunt in May at Oliver Square. CONTRIBUTED

U of A students feel pain of scholarship review

The University of Alberta is reviewing its scholarship application process. METRO FILE

Already hit by programming cuts and bigger class sizes, U of A students hoping for scholarships this year may be out of luck on that score, too.

Dustin Chelen, vice-president academic of the U of A Students' Union, said he has been told the university won't be awarding hundreds of thousands of dollars in continuing undergrad scholarships this academic year, saying the application process is under review.

"The very real, immediate consequence of this decision ... is that students currently in their last year of studies will probably not be able to receive any of this scholarship funding," said Chelen.

"It's already been a tough year — I'm surprised this is the time they've chosen to reprioritize."

Perry Thorbourne, assistant registrar for student awards, said the U of A is working to align entrance and continuing scholarships in a way that works better at every level.

"We want to minimize any impact on the students; those in their final year will still be able to apply for a scholarship, even if we award that in the winter," he said.

"We need to make a decision on that by mid-October."

Up to 350 undergraduate academic and leadership scholarships are affected by the decision. LUCY HAINES/METRO

A number of civic unions are hoping to help elect a city council that will reverse the decision to have a private company manage the proposed Southeast LRT line.

"We want people who are willing to look deeper at the pros and cons of P3s and also make sure they don't make these decisions in private," said Bill Moore-Kilgannon with Public Interest Alberta.

The group and several civic unions are spending approximately $70,000 on the campaign, which will include advertisements on the LRT system and mock transfers given out at stations encouraging people to question the decision.

"This is not at all a done deal and we need to make sure any city councillor going forward fully understands the implications of the P3," said Moore-Kilgannon.

Stu Litwinowich, president of the Amalgamated Transit Union, said for current ETS workers this is an issue of both protecting their jobs and protecting public safety.

"We have been delivering this service safely and securely for well over 100 years," he said. "Privatization generally cuts corners."

Alta. Mennonites linked to drug cartel

Bust. American DEA charges 7 people linked to Juarez cartel, says Albertans involved

American drug-enforcement officers allege a southeast Alberta hamlet was the destination for a haul of cocaine being moved through a pipeline involving close-knit members of the Mennonite community and one of the world's most notorious Mexican cartels.

The Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) laid charges against seven people in relation to the alleged trafficking operation this week. It's believed all but one of the accused were members of a Mexican Mennonite community and had direct links to the Juarez drug cartel, widely considered to be one of the most brutal criminal organizations in the world.

The drug bust involved 11,000 pounds of marijuana that agents believe was to be distributed to various states in the U.S. and 30 kilograms of cocaine that Kevin Merrill, DEA Assistant Special Agent in Charge, said was bound for Grassy Lakes, Alta., a small hamlet located about an hour east of Lethbridge.

"We had targets that we had identified through phone records that they were talking to up there," he said, adding more charges in connection with the drug bust were possible.

Merrill indicated his organization worked with Canadian authorities but a request for comment from the RCMP's federal communications office had not been returned at press time.

Mennonites are members of a church that has been around for nearly 500 years, according to a post on a national website.

"Today, you won't recognize most Mennonites by how they dress," the posting reads. "But you will find vibrant Mennonite congregations through rural areas, small towns and large cities across Canada and throughout the world."

Southeastern Alberta in particular became a common migration point for Mennonites from Mexico and Bolivia in the 1990s.

Merrill said Mexican cartels tend to rely on family ties or close friends when it comes to their trafficking operations because "it limits the number of people, if they get arrested, that will co-operate against them."

Surcharge. Calgary looks to add peak-hour taxi fee

As Calgary re-examines the idea of a peak-hour surcharge on cab fares, Edmonton is considering abandoning the $3 fee it's had in place for years in favour of a percentage increase during the busiest taxi times.

"We're in the process of looking at our meter rates, and that's one thing that we're definitely eager to follow up on," said Garry Dziwenka, chief livery officer for the City of Edmonton.

In 2008, Edmonton added the $3 fee to fares between 11 p.m. and 4 a.m. as an incentive to get more drivers working during high-demand hours. It was later changed to apply only Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

But the United Cabbies Association of Edmonton recently asked the city to eliminate the fee and instead simply increase taxi rates by 10 per cent during those same hours, said association president Balraj Manhas.

"We lose a lot of customers

Calgary city council will vote Monday on a proposal to re-examine taxi surcharges. METRO FILE

— the short-distance customers," Manhas said.

At the same time, he said some cabbies refuse to take long-distance fares during those hours because it reduces the benefit they get from the surcharge. Dziwenka said "short-trip syndrome" is a problem with the current pricing structure and the city is reviewing the possibility of fare increases of anywhere from four to 25 per cent during peak hours instead of the flat $3 fee.

Stollery clinic helps babies with foot and ankle deformity

A rehabilitation-led clinic at the Stollery Children's Hospital is now offering non-surgical treatment and support for parents of babies born with clubfoot.

A deformity of the foot and ankle that affects muscles and ligaments, causing the foot to curl, clubfoot has often required surgery. But as part of a five-year process, the Stollery is using the Ponseti Method to stretch, cast and brace the foot and ankle in a less invasive way.

About 50 Edmonton babies are affected with clubfoot each year. METRO

Parents work around the clock to save kids' music program

Pulling strings.

Casualty of provincial cuts revived with the help of volunteers, Edmonton String Players Association

annalise.klingbeil@metronews.ca

Parent volunteers have saved the string portion of a decades-old public school extracurricular music program that was silenced because of budget cuts in the spring.

The Music Enrichment Program, which was founded and administered by the Edmonton Public School Board, provided affordable after-school stringed music and orchestral lessons to children ages eight to 18.

In May, Metro was first to report that the school board would stop funding the program for the 2013-14 school year.

After a summer of hard work, the string portion of the Music Enrichment Program is "back and we're bigger than ever," according to Brent Gustafson, treasurer with the Edmonton String Players Association.

The program is continuing to operate out of the schools it previously did and has even expanded to St. Albert.

Student Lynnea Bartel-Nickel spoke to Edmonton Public School Board trustees at a meeting in May about the Music Enrichment Program. METRO FILE

For more information on the new Music Enrichment Program or to register, visit MusicEnrichment.org.

While the choir portion of the program has disbanded, the Edmonton String Players Association, with the support of community grants, now covers the cost of running the string program.

And parent volunteers are logging extremely long hours (Gustafson estimates he's been spending 60 hours a week on the cause) to ensure hundreds of Edmonton children will continue to receive music lessons for a small fee this fall.

"It's about living up to the responsibility of a wonderful program we have been entrusted with," Gustafson said.

"We have been passed this torch and we must not let it fail."

Gustafson said media coverage of the axed program, which was one of the first casualties after cuts to education were announced in the March provincial budget, "galvanized" parents.

The Edmonton Public School Board gifted the program with hundreds of strings instruments the program previously used, as well as music books and stands.

"We're really happy the program is continuing," said Jane Sterling, spokesperson for Edmonton Public Schools.

No money until 2015

Improvements to bus routes a long way off: City

Packed Edmonton bus routes and under-served neighbourhoods are unlikely to see any major changes until at least 2015.

In a report to the transportation committee Wednesday, Edmonton Transit identified a need for 36 new buses to bring transit service to neighbourhoods currently without services, as well as to address chronic overcrowding on major routes.

Purchasing those buses would cost $15.8 million and operating them would cost an additional $5.2 million, according to the city's estimates. The city's capital budget is already written for 2014, so the earliest money could be available is 2015.

Lincoln Ho has buses pass him regularly during the afternoon rush and he said in the morning he just drives. "I don't even take the bus in the morning, because it's unreliable," he said.

Coun. Amarjeet Sohi asked administration to look at ways to improve service in 2014 and said it would be a top priority after the election.

"If I am back here I am going to fight tooth and nail to get service into the communities," he said.

Coun. Dave Loken said he's tired of telling constituents to wait for better bus service. RYAN TUMILTY/METRO

Edmontonians hop on Kickstarter train

Crowdfunding. Less than a week after site expands north, 6 locals are taking full advantage

ANNALISE KLINGBEIL
annalise.klingbeil@metronews.ca

It's less than a week old and already six Edmontonians have posted their projects on crowdfunding site Kickstarter Canada.

When the site, billed as the world's largest funding platform for creative projects, announced intentions to expand to Canada in early August, Edmontonian Nicholas Derk was excited. He set up a page for his project and when Kickstarter Canada went live on Monday, Derk's story-based game app project also went live.

Derk is hoping to raise $9,000 for the app that he describes as "a unique storytelling experience."

"Kickstarter is one of those ways of, I have this idea, if enough people think this idea is cool then I'll have the resources to make it and if they don't then I won't," he said.

Donald Papp is another Ed-montonian with a project on Kickstarter Canada.

"It's an artistic-designed clock that wouldn't have been possible without things like laser cutters and easy access to some special plastics," said Papp.

Papp and his brother have been working on the designer clocks for a while and he said the timing of Kickstarter's Canadian launch worked out well.

Kickstarter Canada launched on Monday, and Edmontonians have already turned to the site for funding. CONTRIBUTED

'My mind plays with me.' Woman who drowned son said she had dark thoughts

Nerlin Sarmiento told her family she had dark thoughts about killing her two children.

The 32-year-old had been in and out of hospital and was on medication for depression and possible bipolar disorder. So, in late 2012, her mother started spending nights at the family's Edmonton apartment to help look after the kids. Sarmiento's husband thought they would be safe.

But on Feb. 12, after her husband and mother left for work, Sarmiento sent her 10-year-old daughter off to school and started filling the bathtub with water.

Seven-year-old Omar Jajoy had been sitting at the kitchen table eating breakfast and finishing his homework.

Court documents show his mother shoved him into the bathroom, pushed him into the tub, got into the water herself and held his small head down while he thrashed in the water.

After he stopped moving, she called 911.

A court hearing began Thursday to determine if Sarmiento should be held not criminally responsible for the crime.

The woman admits in court documents that she killed her son but she has pleaded not guilty to a charge of first-degree murder. Her defence lawyer, Peter Royal, plans to call medical evidence showing she was suffering from a mental illness at the time.

In a videotaped interview with police after the drowning, Sarmiento said she knew that killing her son was wrong and she must pay for what she had done. She said she had wanted to drown both her children that day. But her daughter was too big.

"I have been sick, my mind plays with me," she told police. "Sometimes I imagine things."

Help wanted. 700 workers still needed for upcoming civic election

While it's on track to get the needed 3,000 workers to run the city's upcoming election, Edmonton Elections still needs 700 people to help run voting stations on election day.

Deputy returning officers, who greet voters, check ID and help with voter registration at poll stations, are most needed in southeast parts of the city, in wards 11 and 12 — Mill Woods and other neighbourhoods.

Edmonton Elections communications co-ordinator Karen Burgess said workers must be 18 and take a three-hour training session.

The pay rate depends on position and hours worked. Most staff will be needed from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. on election day.

While only city residents can vote, people from surrounding areas are welcome to apply for the jobs.

Stop by city hall, visit edmonton.ca, or call 780-442-VOTE for job details and applications.

Edmonton will elect a new mayor and new city councillors on Monday, Oct. 21.

Two derailments too many: Mayor

Trouble on the tracks.

Nenshi pushes for rail answers after experiencing effects of accident

A moving menace?

Mayor Naheed Nenshi
On Wednesday's derailment

Calgary Mayor Naheed Nenshi is again demanding answers from Canadian Pacific Railway after eight rail cars full of oil chemicals derailed at a train yard in the city, forcing the closure of major road and the evacuation of some homes.

Six of the cars, which were carrying a diluting agent used in oil pipelines, flipped over during rush hour Wednesday. Residents in some homes in the immediate area were told to leave, but no one was hurt and none of the cars leaked.

The derailment comes less than three months after a bridge over the swollen Bow River gave way underneath a CP train while the city was trying to recover from severe flooding.

Nenshi said "two derailments is two too many."

Nenshi was one of the Calgarians trapped in traffic during Wednesday's derailment.

"That is not only massively inconvenient for people, it's also massively dangerous as we have thousands and thousands of people going through this area," Nenshi said Thursday.

"Once again it was city staff, who have no regulatory authority on this, risking their lives to solve the problem and we can't solve the problem if we're not given correct, accurate information at the beginning.

"It again highlights what municipal politicians have been saying for a very long time, which is we need better regulations on the movement of trains through cities and particularly the time of those movements."

Rally seeks to remind country of rape culture beyond SMU

Wider discourse. SMU got caught with chant, but does not own the problem, poet declares

ALY THOMSON
For Metro in Halifax

An organizer of a rally promoting consensual sex at Saint Mary's University in Halifax says the attitudes on campus surrounding rape and equality need to change.

The rally came after the scandal caused by a frosh event in which hundreds of students took part in a chant that glorified the rape of underage girls.

Roughly 150 people attended Thursday's rally.

Lewis Rendell, 20, said she hoped the incident would spark a wider discussion about rape culture.

Before reading an impassioned poem about a rape victim, Halifax poet laureate El Jones declared that "the problem doesn't belong to SMU."

"SMU didn't create rape culture," Jones told the crowd. "SMU got caught, but everybody else has been doing it."

The chant prompted the resignation of the president of the SMU Students' Association.

According to the university, two student organizers are facing disciplinary action and roughly 80 student leaders will undergo sensitivity training.

Rendell, a board member of the SMU Women's Centre, added that the rally was also protesting the administration's response to the scandal.

A spokesman for SMU said in an email that the school is working with the centre to strengthen their relationship. Steve Proctor said a member of the centre has agreed to sit on the President's Council.

Universities watch and take notes

James Sanford, executive director of student services at Acadia University in Wolfville, N.S., said he expects many school administrators are closely watching Saint Mary's.

Ryan Flanagan, director of student affairs at Carleton University in Ottawa, said the administration became more involved in orientation after student-leadership concerns in 2010.

"If student associations are going to run it, I think you're taking on a risk," he said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hospital uses Que. controversy to lure workers to Ontario

Values charter.

Concerns over proposed restrictions on religious clothing used to recruit nurses, doctors

No bad publicity

"OK, are we going to get crucified, or are we going to get some people interested?"

Kevin Empey, Lakeridge president and CEO

Paging Quebec's doctors and nurses: If you're worried about the proposed restrictions on religious clothing in your home province, an Ontario hospital group is looking to hire.

Lakeridge Health, which runs four hospitals east of Toronto, is turning the controversy over Quebec's "values charter" into a recruiting drive for health-care professionals.

It released a cheeky ad Thursday on social media, asking Quebec doctors and nurses to consider a move to Ontario.

It depicts a woman wearing a hijab and a stethoscope with the slogan "We don't care what's on your head. We care what's in it."

The ad is slated to appear Monday in McGill University student newspaper in Montreal. But it's already attracted plenty of attention.

The proposed Quebec legislation would prohibit hospital workers and other public-sector workers from wearing religious clothing like hijabs, kippas and turbans in the workplace.

While polls indicate that most respondents in Quebec support the legislation, it's sparked a contentious debate elsewhere in Canada.

The recruiting drive isn't about picking a fight with Quebec, said Lakeridge president and CEO Kevin Empey.

"This isn't to send a salvo at Quebec," he said. "This is because we have to recruit people."

Lakeridge, which operates in one of Ontario's fastest-growing regions, is looking to fill about 230 jobs, Empey said. Even though they've been hiring 20 to 60 people a month for more than a year, Lakeridge has to look outside Ontario for new graduates and experienced professionals.

Hospital officials debated the ad for more than a week, concerned that it would backfire in Montreal, he said. But so far the response has been "amazing."

"Even as it went out we were going, 'OK, are we going to get crucified, or are we going to get some people interested?'" he said.

"I've had direct emails from Calgary to Ottawa that have emailed me directly."

Health Minister Deb Matthews called the ad "provocative," but said it reflects Ontario as a place that celebrates diversity.

"What Lakeridge said in that ad speaks for all of us," she said. "We do care about people's skills and people's abilities. Whatever clothing ... we're cool with that here in Ontario and I think it's our strength."

Florida. Charges possible after suicide of 12-year-old girl who was cyberbullied

A 12-year-old girl committed suicide after she was bullied online, and a sheriff said Thursday that he is investigating whether he can file charges under a new Florida cyberbullying law.

Sheriff Grady Judd said that Rebecca Ann Sedwick jumped to her death on Monday. Investigators say the girl was despondent after others had posted hate messages about her online. Sedwick was "absolutely terrorized on social media," Judd said.

He said parents of all 15 girls have co-operated with detectives and several cellphones and laptops have been confiscated. Judd said charges could be filed — including cyberstalking.

Semantics. Nude bike pitch alters city bylaw

A case of two women wanting a parade permit to ride naked through Winnipeg last year has led to a change in a city bylaw.

On Thursday, Winnipeg Police Service officials spoke in favour of amending a traffic bylaw to include bicyclists as well as pedestrians in the definition of a parade.

Patrol Sgt. Kevin Cisaroski, the police's special events co-ordinator, said the bylaw "didn't address bicyclists at all."

He said that exclusion prevented police from having the authority to issue parade permits for cyclists, meaning bikes had to continue to abide by the Highway Traffic Act, with no side-by-side riding and the required stopping at red lights and stop signs.

As for the naked ride, a permit was not issued, and "it still isn't allowed," said Cisaroski. BERNICE PONTANILLA/METRO IN WINNIPEG

Ex-Hutterites pen book alleging corruption, sexism, puny wages

Hutterites: Our Story to Freedom. Co-author says the system debases the colonists

SHANE GIBSON
Metro in Winnipeg

A group of former Hutterite colony members from Manitoba and North Dakota are peeling back the veil on the societies traditionally closed off to the modern world.

Seven years after each individually decided to escape — a move that has caused their communities and much of their families to shun them — the group of nine has published a tell-all account of their sheltered lives.

"This is actually exposing the Hutterites," explained Glenda Maendel, adding their book was written as much for those still living in colonies as it was for those on the outside.

Allegations

"The mindset you had there was that everything is evil out here and you'd go to hell if you leave the colony."

Co-author Glenda Maendel

"The mindset you had there was that everything is evil out here and you'd go to hell if you leave the colony."

"It's for people to see that there is hope and freedom out there."

Hutterites: Our Story to Freedom was released in August, and each of the former members takes a chapter to tell their personal story. The accounts describe a corrupt system of sexism, favouritism and unfair wages, in which members work for $3 to $5 a month while the colony coffers grow.

"We love the Hutterite people, but it's the system that ruins the people," said Maendel.

The book also looks at the struggles each of the nine went through after leaving their communities for a new world with nothing but the clothes on their backs.

"It took years to adjust," said another of the authors, Titus Waldner.

"Inside the colony you're not invited to express yourself as an individual.... To come out of that and now just start being open and sharing and know who you are as a person — it doesn't happen overnight."

3 dead as flash floods in Colorado cut off towns

University of Colorado. 400 students in a dorm in Boulder evacuated and classes cancelled because of the flooding

Heavy rains and scarring from recent wildfires sent walls of water crashing down mountainsides early Thursday in Colorado, cutting off mountain towns, forcing the University of Colorado to cancel classes and leaving at least three people dead.

Boulder County was hit hardest, with about 150 millimetres of rain falling over 12 hours. But flooding was reported all along the Front Range, from Colorado Springs to north of Fort Collins.

Boulder Office of Emergency Management spokeswoman Gabrielle Boerkircher said many roads were blocked and volunteers were trying to help stranded people until emergency crews could arrive.

Boerkircher said one person was killed when a structure collapsed in the tiny town of Jamestown. Boulder County Sheriff Joe Pelle said

Three vehicles crashed into a creek after the road washed out from beneath them in Broomfield, Colo., Thursday in heavy flooding. Three people were rescued. ANDY CROSS/THE DENVER POST/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Flood damage

- Broomfield: U.S. Highway 287 collapsed when a culvert washed out, dumping three vehicles into the rushing water. Three people were rescued and had minor injuries.
- Near Lyons: About 60 centimetres of water was standing on U.S. Highway 36 as a normally shallow creek known for trout fishing spilled over its banks.

another person was also found dead in northern Boulder.

To the south, Colorado Springs spokeswoman Kim Melchor said police conducting flood patrols found a body in Fountain Creek on the west side of the city early Thursday.

National Weather Service meteorologist Bob Kleyla said a six-metre wall of water was reported in Left Hand Canyon north of Boulder, and a firefighter radioed he was trapped in a tree. He said rescuers were trying to get through, but were blocked by debris. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bloomberg. N.Y.C. mayor touts post-9/11 revival

A day after the anniversary of the Sept. 11, 2001, terror attacks, New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg touted the progress the World Trade Center site — and all of Lower Manhattan — has made in 12 years, but warned of future terror threats.

Bloomberg said when he took office in January 2002 the ruins of the World Trade Center were still smouldering and that there was real worry that the city would not be able to recover from the crippling economic and emotional blows delivered by the disaster.

He said in a speech to the Downtown Alliance, which manages the area's Business Improvement District, that the population of downtown has tripled since 2001 and the area is now home to hotels, schools and parks.

The speech was meant to burnish Bloomberg's legacy as the mayor's term in office expires at year's end.

Cop at G20 summit guilty of assault

G20. Judge said the Toronto officer was justifying his blows when he claimed to be responding to resistance

The criminal conviction of a Toronto police officer for assaulting a protester during the G20 summit three years ago is being hailed as a victory for the hundreds of demonstrators who were rounded up and arrested that weekend.

Const. Babak Andalib-Goortani was convicted

Thursday of assault with a weapon after a judge found he used excessive force during the arrest of protester Adam Nobody on June 26, 2010, at the Ontario legislature.

Andalib-Goortani didn't need to forcefully jab Nobody with his baton several times as his fellow officers were trying to cuff the man, Ontario Superior Court Judge Louise Botham found.

"A police officer is not entitled to use unlimited force to affect an arrest," she said.

Video of Nobody's arrest shows him on the ground with officers piled on top of him.

Andalib-Goortani's explanation "that he was responding to Adam Nobody's resistance is nothing more than an after-the-fact attempt to justify his blows," said the judge.

Nobody clapped as the verdict was announced. A sentencing hearing for the police constable is set for Nov. 8. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Assad regime. Syria agrees to Russian plan on chemical weapons

Syrian President Bashar Assad publicly agreed Thursday to a Russian plan to secure and destroy his chemical weapons, but said the proposal would work only if the U.S. halts threats.

Assad also said his government will start submitting data on its chemical weapons stockpile a month after signing the convention banning such weapons while the UN said Thursday that it received a letter from Syria stating its intention to join.

The treaty states that a nation becomes a party 30 days after such a letter is submitted. Syria had long rejected joining the Chemical Weapons Convention.

U.S. officials want a speedier accounting.

"We agreed ... in response to Russia's request and not because of American threats," Assad told Russian TV.

"In my view, the agreement will begin to take effect a month after its signing, and Syria will begin turning over to international organizations data about its chemical weapons," Assad said.

He added this is "standard procedure" and that Syria will stick to it.

"There is nothing standard about this process," U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry retorted in Geneva, because Assad has used his chemical weapons. "The words of the Syrian regime in our judgment are simply not enough."

The Chemical Weapons Convention requires all parties to the treaty to declare and destroy whatever chemical weapons they may possess.

Assad said the Russian deal was a two-sided process. "We are counting, first of all, on the United States stop conducting the policy of threats regarding Syria," he said.

Kerry cautioned that a U.S. military strike could occur if Assad doesn't agree to dismantle his chemical arsenal properly.

"There ought to be consequences if it doesn't take place," he said.

Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov, however, said the dismantling "will make unnecessary any strike against the Syrian Arab Republic." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Prince William finishes service in the military

Off duty. Heir to the throne will have more time to spend with his family and participate in royal engagements

There will be no more perilous military helicopter missions for Prince William in the rugged mountainous terrain of northern Wales.

With the military's announcement Thursday that he has completed the operational phase of his career, William looks free to spend more time with his wife, Kate, and their two-month-old son, Prince George, while he takes on more royal engagements and charity roles.

The move marks the end of an exciting phase in the prince's life — he became adept at piloting a Sea King helicopter in foul weather, helping mountaineers in distress and rescuing mariners in the frigid waters of the Irish Sea. His active military career, a traditional rite of passage for senior royals, lasted more than seven years, first in the Army and then in the Royal Air Force. Air Chief Marshal Andrew Pulford said William had been an important part of the Royal Air Force's search and rescue force for the past three years.

William, 31, started as an officer cadet at Sandhurst military academy in 2006. He began search and rescue helicopter training three years later and has the RAF rank of Flight Lieutenant, similar to a captain in the U.S. Air Force.

Cameras could be coming to U.K. courtrooms

U.S.-style televised justice is gaining traction in Britain.

Britain's Ministry of Justice says a proposal to allow cameras to broadcast cases from England's Court of Appeal has been approved by lawmakers in Britain's lower house. British Courts Minister Helen Grant said in a statement Thursday that "justice must be seen to be done, that is why we are introducing limited television broadcasting in courts from next month." Long banned in most parts of the U.K. by the country's tradition-heavy justice system, televised trials have made small but significant inroads. Proceedings in Britain's Supreme Court have been carried live online since 2011. Last year, filmmakers won rare access to Scotland's High Court, broadcasting footage from inside the court as part of a documentary called The Murder Trial.

Beating bullies with the power of politeness

London, Ont. Etiquette school to show kids they have the power to cope — and succeed

MIKE DONACHIE
Metro in London, Ont.

Sometimes there's nowhere to run.

What does a child do when faced with a bully and they have nobody to turn to? A new initiative in London, Ont., has the answer: It's all about etiquette.

"We want to teach children how to put their best foot forward despite whatever circumstances they are facing," said Wendy Mencil, director of the city's newly established Canadian School of Protocol and Etiquette.

"For instance, helping children with their social skills helps against bullies," she said. "The initiative in the school system is: Walk away and tell an adult — but sometimes there's no place to walk away to and there's no adult."

"What do you do in that situation?"

The answer, she says, is to stand up to aggressors — politely.

"Bullied people will instinctively look down. We teach them to look people in the eye and say 'No,'" Mencil said. "We teach social skills that will help in any situation, that let people understand you mean business."

It's all about giving the confidence to cope in any situation, whether it's a schoolyard clash or an evening of fine dining.

Mencil, who's a certified etiquette consultant and an Anglican minister, explained: "This isn't about learning how to curtsy or how to sip tea with your pinkie out — which you should never do, by the way, because it's bad etiquette."

"It's about equipping children with social skills that in a very competitive global market will help them to succeed."

Mencil's driven to help young people, and she's direct about why.

"I want to teach children that they don't have to be a victim of bullying," she said. "They have the skills and the tools within themselves to deal with it."

Eating? Drop the phone

Wendy Mencil gave Metro a guide to 21st-century politeness pitfalls.

Texting at the dinner table

"Put your cellphone away if you're having a conversation," said the expert.

"People talking on their cellphones in a nice restaurant very loudly are not polite."

That goes for at home, too. Many young people simply don't know they should put their phones away when they eat.

Show respect behind the wheel

"I see some pretty aggressive driving," Mencil said.

"People cut one another off. Try and think about the other driver.

"Try to be polite, and maybe you could let people in front of you."

Wedding cash grabs

"Something I see a lot now is people asking for money when they're getting married," Mencil said. "A lot of brides put 'Cash only' or 'Please donate towards our honeymoon.' That's just tacky."

Metro's mistake

After considerable persuasion, Mencil eventually agreed to point out a mistake made by Metro's reporter during the interview.

"You said, 'No problem.' That's an etiquette mistake," she explained. "I'm thanking you, and you should say, 'You're welcome.' To say 'No problem' means you have been inconvenienced, and you haven't." Point taken.

Telecom. Vodafone UK CEO to head up Rogers

The chief executive of U.K.-based Vodafone Group has been hired as the new president and CEO of Toronto's Rogers Communications Inc. and plans to take over just ahead of a wireless auction that will see Canada's telecom companies compete for radio waves to expand their cellphone networks.

Guy Laurence, 52, will take over in December as the top executive of Rogers, one of Canada's largest communications companies and its biggest wireless provider with about 10 mil-

He succeeds Nadir Mohamed, who had previously announced his retirement as the head of the wireless, cable and media company.

Canaccord Genuity analyst Dvni Ghose said Laurence will need to both grow the wireless customer business and improve customer service. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Biometrics. iPhone hype may benefit Canuck firm

Karl Martin was thrilled when Apple officially unveiled the fingerprint-reading technology that's built into the new iPhone 5S — even though it could be perceived as competition for his Toronto-based business.

He's hoping the hype around fingerprint scanning will create excitement around other biometrics technologies, including the Nymi, his company's bracelet that promises to read a user's heart rhythm and use it as a form of authentication that could replace online passwords, keys and other security measures.

Bionym is currently taking pre-orders for the device, expected to be released next spring, for $79. The device takes an electrocardiogram when a user wearing it on their wrist touches it with their opposite hand. Martin, CEO of Bionym, says a cardiac rhythm is about as unique as a fingerprint. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Twitter files IPO documents

Twitter has decided to go public. The company aptly announced on its micro-messaging service Thursday afternoon that it has filed documents for an initial public offering of stock.

The documents Twitter filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission are sealed, as it takes advantage of legislation passed last year allowing firms with less than $1 billion US in revenue in the last fiscal year to avoid submitting public IPO documents.

The confidentiality will likely help Twitter avoid the intense scrutiny that surrounded the initial public offerings of other high-profile social media companies, including Facebook.

On the move. Growing number of employees are standing, walking, cycling through the day at active stations

Glued to your desk at work? Cross that off the list of excuses for not having the time to exercise.

A growing number of Americans are standing, walking and even cycling their way through the workday at treadmill desks, standup desks or other moving workstations. Others are forgoing chairs in favour of giant exercise balls to stay fit.

Walking on a treadmill while making phone calls and sorting through emails means "being productive on two fronts," said Andrew Lockerbie, senior vice-president of benefits at Brown & Brown, a global insurance consulting firm.

Lockerbie can burn 350 calories a day walking about five to six kilometres on one of two treadmill desks that his company's Indianapolis, Ind., office purchased earlier this year.

"I'm in meetings and at my desk and on the phone all day," he said. "It's great to be able to have an option at my work to get some physical activity while I'm actually doing office stuff. You feel better, you get your blood moving, you think clearly."

It's been a decade since scientific studies began to show that too much sitting can lead to obesity and increase the risk of developing diabetes, high blood pressure and heart disease. Even going to the gym three times a week doesn't offset the harm of being sedentary for hours at a time, said Dr. James Levine, an endocrinologist at the Mayo Clinic.

BY GEORGE! WHAT A CURSE

Those lazy, hazy, crazy days of summer are over, and now it's time to pay attention. So, if you're wondering what to pay attention to ...

1 Charter chowder. The Parti Québécois unveils its "charter of values," banning the wearing of religious symbols on the job for the province's civil servants. No burkas or turbans or yarmulkes, please. The charter has already claimed its first victim, MP Maria Mourani, who was kicked out of the Bloc Québécois caucus for daring to disagree with her fellow separatists, calling the charter a "political miscalculation." It is that, never mind what else it is.

2 iPhone. Apple unveils its latest iPhones to the usual media frenzy. One is "cheap," just under 100 bucks in the U.S., while the other is so expensive, it induces nosebleeds. But you can lock it with your fingerprint, so you'll never have to worry about forgetting your passcode as it comes permanently attached.

3 Hockey Night in Canada, almost. The boys of summer are still out there tearing up the grass, but the boys of winter are already back at the rink getting ready for a 1,230-game season that culminates on April 13, 2014, in the final game between the Dallas Stars and the Phoenix Coyotes. And then the playoffs begin. Are you ready for some, er, a lot of hockey?

4 Harry Potter sequel — NOT. Hollywood is rocking with the news that Harry Potter author J.K. Rowling is going to write her first screenplay about the world of wizards. Too bad it's about Fantastic Beasts and Where to Find Them, which really has nothing to do with Harry Potter, "the boy who lived," presumably to spawn a sequel ... someday.

Rowling seems to have a perverse need to deny her millions of fans the one thing they do want. Curses! As in Avada Kedavra!

5 From Russia, with petulance. Russian President Vladimir Putin has the nerve to preach to America about being good global citizens and avoiding military action in Syria in an op-ed piece in the New York Times. His article has the unanticipated side-effect of doing what President Obama has never been able to do: Unite the fractious U.S. Congress. A Republican senator believes Ronald Reagan is turning over in his grave, while a Democratic senator said the article nearly made him vomit. No word on a sequel.

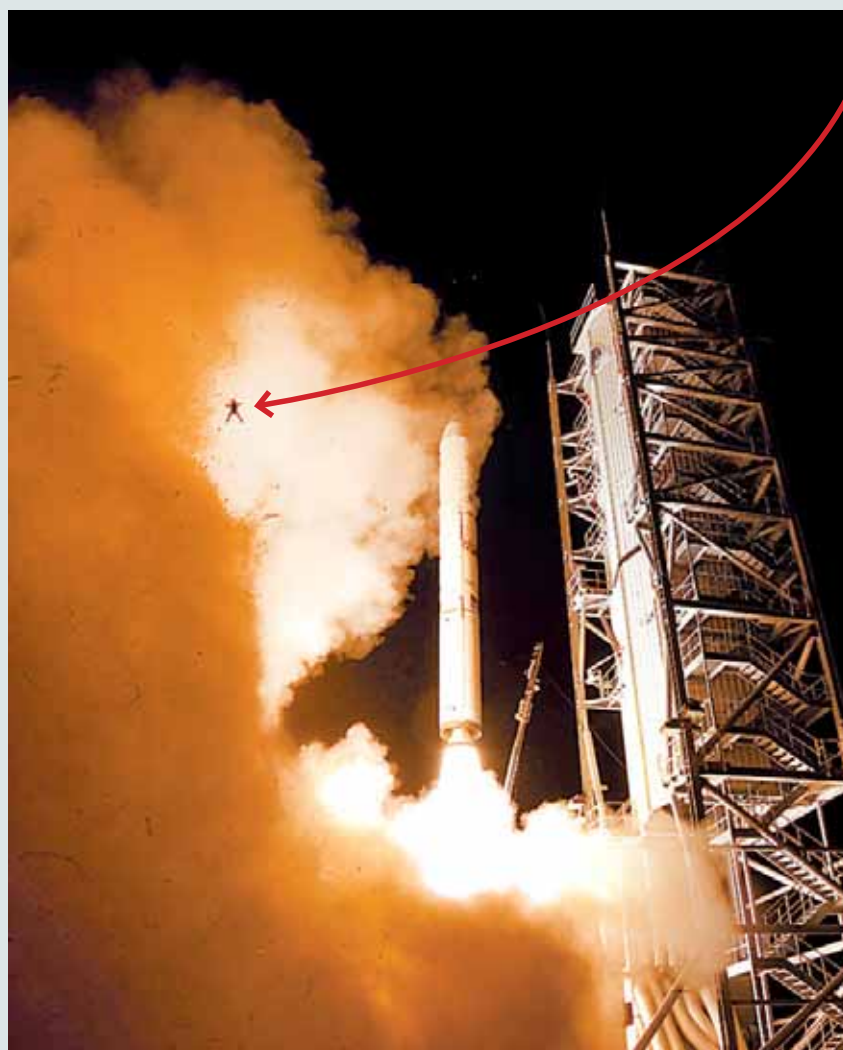

6 Ain't gonna study war no more. After flying 156 missions and helping to rescue 149 people, Prince William is retiring from his job as a U.K. military rescue chopper pilot after seven-and-a-half years. He will now shift his focus to rescuing endangered animals — he has recorded a video calling for an end to the ivory and rhino horns trade. Presumably his other hazardous duty will include getting up in the middle of the night to change the royal diapers on baby George.

Frog launches with NASA rocket

Frogs have been sautéed, baked and deep-fried. But not until the latest NASA moon launch has one ever been seen blasted by a rocket.

The likely unfortunate event occurred Sept. 6, when a frog got an unexpected front-row seat to the liftoff of NASA's lunar explorer, known as LADEE. When the rocket unleashed its 361,000 pounds of thrust, more than the spacecraft took off.

The moment was captured in an extraordinary photograph posted on NASA's website.

RE: Rape Not One Of The Three R's, says Paul Sullivan, published Sept. 12

"The tongue of the wise commends knowledge, but the mouth of the fool gushes folly." In wake of the "pro-rape chant" disgrace at SMU and UBC lately, it seems evident to me that universities have become hotbeds of foolishness, instead of the bastions of wisdom. I agree that the university leadership's reaction is one similar to the deer in headlights. They've long known that stupid behaviour such as this has been around the campus — it's only now that it gets widespread public attention outside that they act.

Synopsis

Once again the story focuses on the Lambert family — wife Renai (Rose Byrne), husband Josh (Patrick Wilson), kids Dalton and Foster (Ty Simpkins and Andrew Astor) and grandma Lorraine (Barbara Hershey). After the haunting events of the first movie they have moved in an effort to put the past behind them. Unfortunately they can't escape the ghosts who are attracted to what Josh has — life! Increasingly terrifying encounters with spirits threatens not only Josh's safety but the safety of everyone who comes into contact with him.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Insidious: Chapter 2.

A confusing story and clunky dialogue get in the way of the thrills and chills in James Wan's film

Richard: Mark, jumping around in time and between the realm of the living and the great beyond, this story will be confusing to anyone who hasn't seen the original. But say what you will about the storytelling, no one else makes mainstream horror films like James Wan. Maybe it's best to think of Insidious: Chapter 2 as like taking a walk through a haunted house. The exhilaration comes from the scares, not the walk. Did it make your spine tingle?

Mark: No, Richard, I was too busy trying to decipher what was going on. My spine doesn't tingle when it's exhausted. I do think Wan was ambitious in juggling all those space and time plots, and his atmospheric were first rate. But I actually might criticize the acting here — there were a lot of clunky line readings. Lin Shaye, however, as the ghostly clairvoyant, steals the picture whenever she's onscreen. And Barbara Hershey? Hottest grandma ever!

RC: Ha! There may be the odd clunky line reading, but with her delicate features and downturned mouth, Rose Byrne does shock face like no one else. I also liked Patrick Wilson. He looks like the clean-cut guy next door, but when he's inhabited by evil spirits, boy, does he get ornery! I also liked that it was a horror film that doesn't rely on gore to get a rise out of the audience. The plasma budget must have been practically zero, but what it lacks in gore it makes up for in smoke, shadows and eerie red doors.

MB: Yes, no gore; Wan has certainly moved on from Saw. But what you call shock face I might call overacting, and seeing Patrick Wilson cast against type is a bit of a mixed blessing. But in the end, it's still a story about possession and hauntings, and we might just be at the saturation point of the genre. The creaky old house doesn't help. Someday someone's going to set a film like this in an airy modernist penthouse, illustrating the horrors of light and white leather sofas.

RC: And they'll call it A Haunting at Ikea: The Mournful Tale of Billy the Wobbly Bookcase! I think I'll stick to the old school creaky house with a dark basement for ghouls to hide in.

MB: Dark basements are scary, but so are balconies on the 40th floor. I'm not sure where I'd find the ghouls more dangerous!

Finding the Canadian in Kurt

The Art of the Steal.

Jay Baruchel had a great time on set with co-star Kurt Russell

scene@metronews.ca

"You show up on set and you look over here and there's Kurt Russell and there's Terence Stamp," says Jay Baruchel of shooting his new film The Art of the Steal. "And you think, 'I have a pretty cool gig.'"

The heist film sees Kurt Russell and Matt Dillon as Crunch and Nicky Calhoun, brothers and art thieves who haven't worked together since Nicky snitched on Crunch and sent him to prison. Years later they team up to steal one of the world's rarest books, but will the job lead to more double-crossing?

Baruchel co-stars in this twisty-turny movie as Crunch's sidekick and protégé, which meant he got to spend a great deal of time with Russell.

The Art of the Steal opens in theatres next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

"It's one of these things where if we didn't get along at all we would find a way to fake it but what really helped is that we were two Chatty Cathys. I would ask him every conceivable thing. Every John Carpenter story. Stuff about Tango and Cash. Stuff about Tombstone, one of my very favourite movies of all time.

"He was cool to talk about all of it so whenever cut was called Kurt and I would go outside and have a cigarette and talk. We talked about everything. We talked about politics. We talked movies, sports. He's a Canadianophile as well, so the man has some real Canadian bona fides. So when it comes time to say action, there's an energy, a connection, a shorthand because we enjoy one another's company.

"It can be faked, but it's way less fun and way more work."

Working with one of his heroes wasn't the only reason Baruchel signed on.

"Like any job I take, I look at the opportunity," he says. "I look at who I'm going to work with, what it's about and where it's going to be and would I pay money to see it. This checked every box on my criteria."

Chief among those yardsticks is a strong Canadian element. The actor is a vocal supporter of the homegrown industry who says, "We need to make more movies here that take place here and we will not hide our Canadian-ness."

The Art of the Steal fits the bill. It was shot in Niagara Falls, a place he calls "a very specific part of the world, equal parts gorgeous and seedy and strange and disarming. The whole thing is a back lot. You put a camera there anywhere and you have production value up your ass."

Action/Comedy

The Family

Director. Luc Besson

Stars. Robert De Niro, Michelle Pfeiffer

This fish-out-of-water story sees The Manzonis: Maggie (Michelle Pfeiffer), Belle (Diane Argon), Warren (John D'Leo) and father, hit-man-turned-stoolie Giovanni (Robert De Niro), in witness protection in Normandy. Overseen by an FBI handler (Tommy Lee Jones), they try and fit in. Trouble is, they don't blend. The Family is a Bobby D mob flick, so it isn't terrible, and co-star Michelle Pfeiffer, brings back fond memories of Married to the Mob, but the film teases us with visions of De Niro in gangster mode and lets us down with a paint-by-numbers story. RICHARD CROUSE

Aniston on stripping, tabloids and celebrity

We're the Millers. Jen spent weeks with a trainer to get in pole-twirling shape

GABRIELA ACOSTA SILVA
scene@metronews.ca

In the new comedy We're the Millers, the Friends star, now 44, plays an aging stripper who pretends to be a mom, to help a schlub (Jason Sudakis) smuggle weed out of Mexico. The film has proven a monster hit, making the actress big again at the multiplex. Metro's papers in Mexico recently sat down with Jennifer Aniston to talk about the film.

You're in the tabloids a lot. What do you dislike most about fame?

That people see artists as gods, when we are simple humans. It seems that our life, it's part of the development of the world — that if I get married, if I am mad with somebody, if I am pregnant ... that shouldn't be that important. I think people should pay more attention to other stuff, because nothing is what it seems; we are not as magnificent as you might think.

Your character in the film, Rose, doesn't leave much to the imagination.

The character is a stripper and I have to do a sensual dance. I have been in several clubs and had an amazing choreographer who taught me this beautiful dance I perfected for weeks and weeks. It wasn't easy to do it; I was quite intimidated, but in the end I think it wasn't so bad, is it?

You looked like a pro.

I went to a gym for weeks and weeks — the coach put me on a strict diet and that gives you certain confidence. The hardest part was to go up the stairs in a sexy way.

Do you approach a character like this as if she's real? Give her a backstory?

I think she is a sad striptease dancer who has built a tough appearance because she had many disappointments through her life, mainly by choosing the wrong men. I think the anger turns to sadness and that we learn it with life. So that's how I got into the character. Playing with the cliché about being mother and wife was more easier than I expected and it had more to do with the experiences during my career.

Is comedy a genre that attracts you or has it been accidental?

I love to make people laugh. It's something I really like and comedies are something very fun. I made a few dramas, but I think I tend to gravitate toward comedies because they fit me. I want to do a horror film, something like The Exorcist, with some psychological fear.

In We're the Millers you pretend to be a mom. How did that feel?

I have to confess that I already feel like a mother, because I have many friends who are moms and I spend a lot of time with them... I'm very maternal.

Jennifer Aniston stars in We're the Millers, playing now. CONTRIBUTED

Idris Elba's turn as Nelson Mandela in Mandela: Long Walk to Freedom made its big debut at the Toronto International Film Festival this month with clear awards aspirations. Elba is far from the first actor to take on Mandela's inspiring story — he's been portrayed on screen more than a dozen times — but he could be the first man to win an Oscar for playing him. Here's how some of his previous on-screen incarnations measured up.

NED EHRBAR

Metro World News in Hollywood

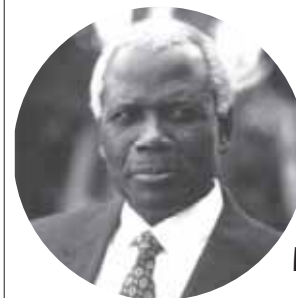

George Harris: Prisoners of Conscience (1981)

A familiar face from the Harry Potter and Indiana Jones franchises, Harris was the first English-language speaker to play Mandela, in an episode of this BBC political documentary series. Released while Mandela was still in prison, it's nearly impossible to find a copy of Prisoners of Conscience today.

Danny Glover: Mandela (1987)

Airing three years before Mandela's release from prison, this HBO original film featured Lethal Weapon's Glover alongside Alfre Woodard as Winnie, chronicling his rise to prominence and incarceration. The high-profile film scored Glover an Emmy nomination.

Sidney Poitier: Mandela and de Klerk (1997)

What a cast here: Academy Award-winner Poitier stars alongside Michael Caine (as South African president F.W. de Klerk). It details the behind-the-scenes negotiations that led to the legalization of the African National Congress — and Mandela's release. Like Glover, Poitier was nominated for an Emmy.

Dennis Haysbert: Goodbye Bafana (2007)

The president from 24 playing the president! Haysbert is pitted against Joseph Fiennes' racist prison guard, whose detail guarding Mandela brings about a change of heart.

8 Onscreen Nelson Mandelas

Clarke Peters: Endgame (2009)

The end of apartheid — and the behind-the-scenes negotiations that brought about its end — is examined again, this time with Mandela taking more of a supporting role. The Wire vet Peters, starring opposite William Hurt and Jonny Lee Miller of Elementary, embodies Mandela as his time in prison comes to an end.

Morgan Freeman: Invictus (2009)

In the role he was destined to play, Freeman is Mandela as newly-elected president and attempts to unite post-Apartheid South Africa through a love of rugby. Freeman would be nominated for an Oscar, alongside co-star Matt Damon.

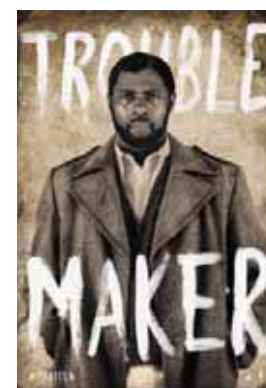

Terrence Howard: Winnie (2011)

Mandela's second wife Winnie Madikizela-Mandela is the star here, played by Jennifer Hudson. The film details her childhood, her own incarceration and struggles with adversity both during Mandela's imprisonment and afterward. Howard (Iron Man) plays Mandela as a charmbot.

Idris Elba: Mandela: Long Walk to Freedom (2013)

Expected to be the definitive biopic, this awards-hopeful follows Mandela from childhood to his first presidential inauguration — with Skyfall co-star Naomie Harris as Winnie. It's based on Mandela's own 1994 memoir. Stringer Bell for best actor?

Sorrentino in much healthier Situation now

Coming clean. Former Jersey Shore star Mike 'The Situation' Sorrentino opens up about addiction battle

Former Jersey Shore cast member Mike "The Situation" Sorrentino realized he had an addiction problem on a trip to Australia in February 2012. He ran out of a prescription to treat an injury suffered during a 2010 stint on ABC's Dancing with the Stars.

"All I had to do was get dressed for a family function and I couldn't do that," Sorrentino said Monday in an interview with The Associated Press. "The shirt was laid out, the belt, the pants, everything. The shower was on. I couldn't even get out of bed," he said. Then he thought, "If I can't do that how am I going to continue?"

There were rumours at the time that he was battling an addiction to drugs and alcohol but Sorrentino maintains that wasn't the case and says "those rumours were definitely false. I didn't mix anything."

Soon after he checked into rehab, where doctors prescribed him with a medication to treat opioid addiction. Sorrentino still takes it daily and says that, combined with counselling, is what works best for him.

The 32-year-old is now a paid spokesman for Reckitt Benckiser Pharmaceuticals, Inc., the company that makes the medication he's taking. He's also helped launch a program called Reset Reality, to spread knowledge and understanding of opioid prescription painkiller addictions.

The road to figuring out he had a problem wasn't so easy. Looking back, there were people, like his family, who recognized before he did that something wasn't right.

For one, he stopped working out as much, which was out of character. Also, he recalls: "People would say, 'Mike's not the same Mike we've seen before.'" He would respond, "I don't know what they're talking about" or chalk it up to someone not liking him or the show, but now says, "I was suffering a disease."

After completing rehab, Sorrentino still had one more season to film of Jersey Shore.

"A little part of me was like, 'How am I gonna get through this?' but if you watched I didn't have one drink."

The show aired its final episode last December. Since then Sorrentino has "gotten back to who Michael is."

The focus is on fitness, family, cooking and he says he also has a girlfriend.

He tries to look at life in 24 hour increments and his goal is to be "the best person I can be for those 24 hours."

Sorrentino also has plans to return to showbiz and hopes to have career announcements soon, but says staying healthy is his main focus and he's proud of that.

"The roller coaster of fame and fortune is definitely a ride in itself, but to get to recovery is something special. ... There is hope out there and you can get help." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Breaking Bad spinoff will be all about Saul

Breaking Bad fans will be ecstatic to learn that there is a new chapter in the show after it ends: Saul Goodman is getting his own spinoff series, tentatively called Better Call Saul. Television's funniest, slimiest fictional lawyer, Saul Goodman is returning to AMC with a one hour show that acts as a prequel to Breaking Bad. Bob Odenkirk, also of Adult Swim fame, will reprise his role as Saul. METRO

Candid Kendra glad to be back On Top

Season 2. Former playboy bunny can't wait for viewers to experience her life outside of marriage and motherhood

ANISA ARSENAULT
Metro World News in NYC

You identified with her Olive Garden obsession in The Girls Next Door. You did her On Demand ab workouts. You were there every step of the way as she planned her wedding in Kendra. Kendra Wilkinson-Baskett has dominated reality television since 2005. And she's still got more to give. Kendra On Top will return for season two this weekend.

The move from the show Kendra on E! to Kendra On Top on WEtv gave Wilkinson-Baskett the chance to rebrand herself. "Our goal was to reintroduce Kendra again, in a different light," she says. "Season one was about finding a career, being a parent, being a wife — kind of reintroducing me under another network, and reminding people who I am." But season two will dive right in.

For real real

On the new season of Kendra On Top.

"My audience understands where I'm at now; we're pretty much up to date with everything," Wilkinson-Baskett says. "This season is not about me being a parent or about me being married. It's about being a human being, the struggles of what that means, and how I get through it." According to Wilkinson-Baskett, those struggles are real. "This is the most organic show you can get," she says. "Sure, we have creative little tie-ins. But the overall story is 100 per cent my life."

Why such a strong commitment to the reality of reality TV? "I find it very therapeutic to be able to tell my story, and not hide it," she says. "We've been shooting season two of Kendra On Top for about a year now. There's a lot that goes on in a year. Everybody goes through spurts. There are some people who hide those spurts and blow up later. But I'm an open book."

What are some of those "spurts" for Kendra? As husband Hank Baskett develops his career at his gym Athletic Gaines, tensions run high. "There's an episode where you'll get a chance to see what happens when his business mixes with my business, and it ends up not being such a great thing," she says. "It ends up being a complete disaster. You'll get a chance to see how we get through it, together."

Despite their professional differences, Wilkinson-Baskett remains supportive of her hubby's career. "The gym is really the most amazing place ever," she says.

Harry Potter and the movie spinoff

If you own earplugs, better put them in, because everyone who was a child between 1995 and now is about to start screaming.

J.K. Rowling is a writing a new movie set in the world of Harry Potter.

He's a little bit country, a little bit rock 'n' roll

Fuse. Aussie country rocker Keith Urban took chances teaming up with eight different producers on his varied, latest record

Keith Urban didn't need to change a thing. With an enviable consistency, the American Idol judge remains a platinum-selling, arena-filling guitar slinger after spinning hits for 15 years — not to mention the movie-star wife and the Dorian Gray good looks. Yet when it came time to record his latest album, Urban decided to alter the formula even as he reached new peaks in popularity.

The deluxe version of Urban's new album, Fuse, is stuffed with 16 songs recorded with eight producers from widely different backgrounds. There are entries from Urban's longtime collaborator, country hit machine Dann Huff, but also tracks from a menagerie that includes rock and rap mainstay Mike Elizondo, Nashville maverick Jay Joyce, Norwegian hitmakers Stargate, Taylor Swift collaborator Nathan Chapman and rocker Butch Walker.

"I felt like an air traffic controller trying to land 16 planes," Urban said. Getting everything down on the tarmac took the 45-year-old Australian a year longer than expected. It's been three years since Urban released his last album, and he's long since missed the perfect marketing window his first year on Idol provided. He initially intended to meet with a large group, then settled on a single producer.

Things got out of hand as Urban began to see the possibilities.

"As I started working with different people, they'd bring out different things in me," Urban said.

"I'd play different for Butch Walker than I would for Dann Huff. I'd sing a little different for Stargate than I would for Jay Joyce. So I thought, 'Let's keep going on this a bit longer.'"

Urban's seventh album still sounds very much like a Keith Urban album. He said push themselves musically and not try to think of it as this record is just a means to keep the train going, making the music be first. I think it's brave."

Urban agrees he could have taken the safe route, but didn't see his approach as much of a gamble. Fuse hits during one of the most creative points in Urban's life. He's finishing up a tour, preparing for a second season on Idol and is raising two young girls with his wife, Nicole Kidman. The album is simply Urban embracing the possibilities life has presented him.

his goal wasn't to have Walker write a rock song, but to meld sounds and ideas to update and diversify his music.

"I realize now, particularly after this journey, apparently I love hokey songs," Urban said. "I love choruses. I love guitar riffs. I love particular grooves and rhythms and I like them being prominent. I love acoustic instrumentation fused with electronic-type instruments. If I was to label it, I'd probably say it feels like a progressive crossover country album, 2014."

Joyce said Urban dropped by his Nashville studio for a visit. He was drawn to Urban's energy, and like the singer, he loves to mix things up in the studio.

"It was different because he's really heavily involved," said Joyce, who works with artists as diverse as Eric Church, Cage the Elephant and Amos Lee.

"And I kind of admire anybody that's willing to

It's an all-Canadian affair today with a mix of vets and newcomers.

Reservoir / Pup

This new Toronto four-piece is being noticed by websites around the planet. This is honest, unvarnished rock 'n' roll, complete with blemishes. Acquaint yourself now.

King of Copenhagen / The Mahones

They've been touring behind their Angels & Devils album for more than a year now. Their latest video was pasted together from nothing but fan-shot footage. Well done!

Arrows of Desire / Matthew Good

Matt's new album is a back-to-basics affair, inspired in part by repeated listening to his favourite Pixies and Husker Du records. Arrows of Desire will be out Sept. 24.

Aguilera's African aid trip bettered her

Rwanda. Pop star, who was there on a World Hunger Relief effort, needed time away from cameras and was glad to help those less fortunate

Christina Aguilera. GETTY IMAGES

Christina Aguilera says that although she went to Rwanda to help others, she ended up helping herself. The 32-year-old singer visited Rwanda in June for a hunger relief effort. She said the experience helped her ground herself.

"It came at a time in my life when I really needed to be far removed from anything to do with work or being on camera," the Grammy winner said in a recent interview. "It came at a time in my life when I needed to sort of experience what's going on with the world beyond entertainment."

Aguilera has been a spokesperson for Yum! Brands' World Hunger Relief effort since 2009, and has also travelled to Haiti and Guatemala. She said being a mother — she has a five-year-old son, Max — made her feel more empathetic for those suffering from hunger around the world.

"It's so sad to think there's nothing that sets any of us apart," she said. "And when you go into the field, you really see that and feel that we're all one in the same, it's just we're born under different circumstances, and it's sad and I don't understand why, but I feel what I feel and I did what I can."

On her Rwanda trip, The Voice mentor served food to children and visited refugee camps, which she called "one of the most difficult moments."

"They had to escape everything and everybody they knew and loved, and it's just a lot to really open yourself up and feel all that," she said, on the brink of tears. "And you just want to help out in whatever way that you can."

Yum! Brands Inc. is the parent company to KFC, Pizza Hut and Taco Bell. The company said its World Hunger Relief effort has raised nearly $150 million for the United Nations World Food Programme and other organizations since its launch in 2007.

What do Modern Vampires listen to?

Chief songwriters speak. Ezra Koenig and Rostam Batmanglij tell Metro what songs and bands influenced them greatly on their journey to stardom

PAT HEALY
Metro World News in NYC

As Vampire Weekend prepared to go on the road for another set of dates, main men Ezra Koenig and Rostam Batmanglij were right where they belonged earlier this week — helping as guest editors to our Metro papers in New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

Throughout two hour-long discussions with VW's chief songwriters, music obviously comes up a lot.

The references Koenig and Batmanglij throw around are often surprising. The title of their new album comes from the song One Blood by reggae artist Junior Reid. Here is a sampling of a few of the other artists the pair discussed.

Koenig

"Kanye is probably the greatest artist of our generation, and he's always talking about how he doesn't give a f—, but he's also always talking about how he does give a f—. It's two sides of the same coin. I would love to eventually get to a place where I could be so relaxed and be like, 'As long as we think it's good, nothing in the world matters.' But that's not exactly what this whole world of music that we participate in is about."

Batmanglij

"Ezra was kind of inspired by some things, one of them being this song Step to My Girl by Souls of Mischief, which you should check out. ... They were a West Coast rap group. I think they made that song when they were 15. It's kind of like a lost song."

Koenig

"If you grew up obsessing about pop music and idolizing people like The Clash or Radiohead or Prince, who were able to have long careers in which they changed a lot, part of that is because in addition to following their own visions, they were also able to create things that mattered to people. I think that it's really cool that The Clash came out and made this early punk album that had all this energy and got people talking, and then six or seven years later they made this dancey hip-hop song about the Middle East that was like, a huge hit."

Batmanglij

"The Walkmen should be bigger, they are a great band. But I think there's a lot of people that feel the way we do."

Koenig

"I went on a drive last week and I was listening to the ASAP Ferg album. I thought there were some really great songs on it. I liked his vibe and I think it's a well-crafted album. And then I saw it debuted in the top 10, and it's his first album and I was like, 'Well, that seems about right.' That's cool that people are excited about that."

Cheating in the U.S.A.? Has Hemsworth got hands in January's cookie jar?

Rumours about Liam Hemsworth stepping out on fiancée Miley Cyrus are resurfacing after the Hunger Games star reportedly sent a rather forward text message to January Jones, according to Us Weekly. "I want to f--- you," Hemsworth allegedly wrote to the Mad Men actress, with whom he was reportedly spotted making out at an Oscars after-party earlier this year. Hemsworth's rep, however, insists it's all nonsense. "The story of Liam Hemsworth and January Jones is entirely fabricated by US Weekly. There is no truth whatsoever to this tabloid fiction," the rep says in a statement.

Does Cara light up Harry's world like nobody else?

Harry Styles reportedly has a new lady in his life. The One Direction member has been dating Cara Delevingne "for around two weeks," according to E! Online. "Harry's been chasing Cara nonstop. He really likes her and has been saying that he wants to be exclusive with her," a source says. But right now, Cara is not sure what to do. "She's finding her feet right now. They are seeing each other though, casually, and are actually very cute together. He's really chasing her, but she's a really busy girl," the source says.

It seems Demi wants a man with Moore years under his belt

Demi Moore is reportedly dating billionaire restaurant mogul Peter Morton, the 66-year-old father of her ex-boyfriend Harry Morton, according to Grazia. "Demi says that thanks to Peter, her toy-boy fascination could be over," a source says. "At 66, she never thought he'd be her type, but she really likes him." And apparently the same goes for her daughters. "The girls are glad Demi is dating someone older than herself for once," the source adds.

Katherine Heigl

Cinematic source says Heigl, 'can cost you time every single day of shooting'

According to several film and TV insiders, Katherine Heigl is too difficult and demanding to work with, telling the Hollywood Reporter that casting the former Grey's Anatomy actress is "not worth it." A source from her 2010 film Life As We Know It says, "She can cost you time every single day of shooting.

Wardrobe issues, not getting out of the trailer, questioning the script every single day." And a TV executive says Heigl's reputation kept her out of consideration for a role in a new series. "On many levels, she would have been perfect for the role, but all of us said, 'She's not worth it,'" the exec says.

Our Royal Mint will be releasing coins to celebrate the 75th anniversary of Clark Kent's alter ego, and it got me thinking about a style of wine that also has a reputation for being super.

Italy's super Tuscans were conceived back in the 1970s as a liquid rebellion against the Chianti region's archaic winemaking regulations. Some winemakers went rogue by growing and then blending local and global grape varieties.

While Italians initially turned their collective noses up at this sacrilege, they were a hit everywhere else. Soon they were commanding prices as high as Italy's best, which earned them the heroic nickname.

It isn't legally defined terminology, so any winery in Tuscan adding non-traditional grapes to their blend can claim super Tuscan status. That's made it easier to find a drinkable version that doesn't break the bank.

The 2008 Monte Antico Toscana IGT ($15.95 to $18.99) is primarily sangiovese with a small portion of both merlot and cabernet sauvignon. The result is a rich wine with deep plum and black cherry core that offers terrific value.

A classic with pizza, it's equally at home paired with most red meats.

QB kin riding high for Manning Bowl

Brotherly love. Peyton and Eli maintain a close relationship throughout the bright lights of the NFL

Peyton Manning loves Eli's game, and not just because he's his little brother.

As a fellow NFL quarterback, he appreciates the way Eli has improved every year despite an ever-changing supporting cast, all while working under the bright glare of Broadway.

Oh, and those two Super Bowl rings are pretty sweet, too. Big brother has just one of those.

The siblings square off Sunday at MetLife Stadium, the third — and quite possibly last — time they'll face each other in the pros. Peyton came out on top in the first two, with his old team, the Indianapolis Colts, beating the New York Giants in 2006 and 2010.

Peyton, 37, sees Eli, 32, through the dual prism of blood and quarterback brotherhood, and he's thoroughly impressed by the view.

"Eli is a great player," Peyton said. "He's a consistent player. I think he's gotten better every year."

The Mannings talk twice a week on average — last season they played the same divisions in the NFC and AFC, so they shared notes on those common opponents.

"Usually we'll talk on Sunday or Monday after the previous game and then we'll kind of talk maybe Thursday or Friday kind of about the upcoming game," Peyton said. "We've always done that. We'll share."

Not this week.

They both said there was no football dialogue leading up to Manning Bowl III, just the typical bantering among brothers. There's been enough chatter from everyone else. Aside from the "first family of football" angle, this is the first game in NFL history pitting QBs who threw for 400-plus yards the previous week.

Peyton threw for 462 yards and tied an NFL record with seven touchdown passes against Baltimore. Like Peyton, Eli also completed 27 of 42 throws, and he accumulated 450 yards at Dallas but had three interceptions to go with four TDs. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Angels' road trip to Toronto a sweeping success

MLB. Richards' 6 2/3 innings enough to keep Blue Jays grounded

Garrett Richards pitched into the seventh inning to win his third consecutive decision Thursday as the Los Angeles Angels defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 4-3 to complete a three-game sweep.

Kole Calhoun had two hits with a home run for the Angels (70-76), while Jose Reyes had four hits, including a homer, for the Blue Jays (67-79).

Richards (7-6) allowed three runs on nine hits and a walk while striking out four over 6 2/3 innings as the right-hander improved to 4-1 in his last five outings.

Ernesto Frieri pitched the ninth for his 33rd save despite allowing a double to Reyes and a walk to Munenori Kawasaki.

Blue Jays left-hander J.A. Happ (4-6) needed 87 pitches to go just 4 1/3 innings. He allowed six hits, two walks and four runs while striking out six.

The Blue Jays took a 3-2 lead in the third when Reyes hit his 10th homer of the season on the first pitch to tie the game. Kawasaki and Moises Sierra then doubled to put Toronto ahead.

But Calhoun tied it with one out in the fourth on his seventh homer of the season.

After one-out doubles by Aybar and Trout gave the Angels a 4-3 lead in the fifth, Neil Wagner replaced Happ.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

One area of your life will grind to a halt and maybe even go into reverse today. You may not be happy about it but what can you do? Sometimes you just have to accept what occurs.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Life is not and never will be a level playing field — some people are good at things that others will never master. Once you accept that, you can just get on with your life.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

You enjoy causing waves and something you say today will no doubt infuriate people who don't share your views. You need to remind them that their opinions, while valid, are not the be all and end all.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

You cannot change the world, so don't waste time trying. What you can do though is change your own way of looking at the world. If your outlook is positive, your future will be positive too.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

The winds of change are blowing at gale force and if you don't hold onto something, there is a chance you might get swept away. What is most stable in your life? Grasp it.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

There are things going on behind the scenes that will change your world in major ways but that is no reason to worry. Looking back later in the year, you will realize how wonderful they were.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Someone you don't get along with will make their usual fuss today and you should tell them that you've had enough of their dramatics. If they don't shut up then ship them out.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

It takes courage to choose a different path when the one you are on is so familiar but there is no other choice. If you don't change now, you could be stuck with the same old routine for years to come.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

A plan you had high hopes for will have to be put on the back burner for a while. According to the planets, it needs more time to mature in your mind.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Everything that happens in life is part of the grand design. Remember that and you won't go wrong. If you want to win at the game of life, you must let go and trust the universe.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You may be sad that a friend is moving away but the space their departure leaves will be filled by someone else. Life is never static, nor are relationships. You may not like change but ultimately it is good.

Pisces

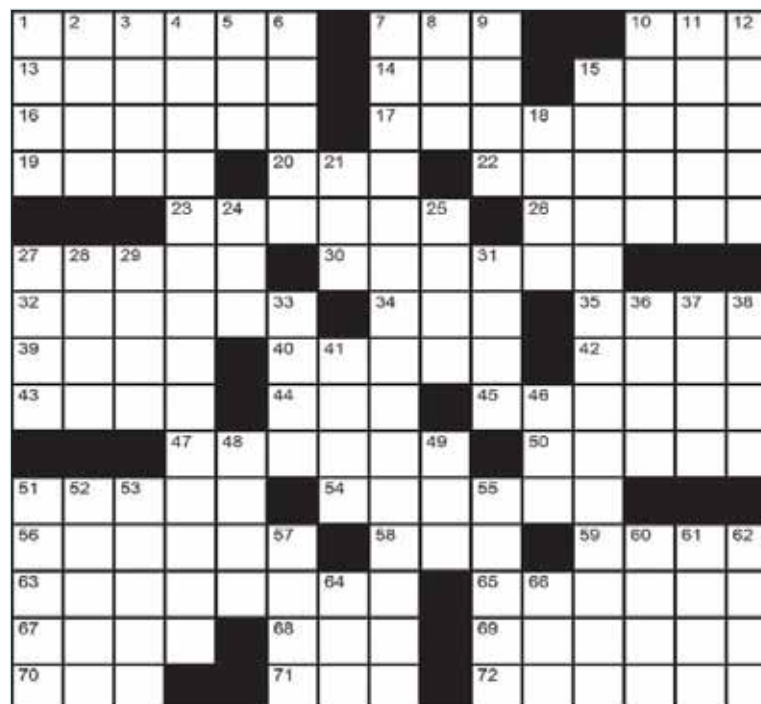

Feb. 20 - March 20

You may be the sort who can bluff your way through most situations but the planets warn you have bitten off more than you can chew this time. A penalty of some kind will have to be paid before you can move on. SALLY BROMPTON
